

High School Girl Reveals Story of A Kidnaping Plot

Albany, N. Y., June 27 (AP).—A sensational story of a kidnaping plot, last Friday night, when the girl was taken to the home of a man in the city of Albany, was revealed today by the girl's mother.

The young girl, an attendant of the local high school, came to her mother's home on Friday, according to her story, and told her mother that she had been taken to the home of a man in the city of Albany, and that she was being held there. She said that she was being held in a room with two other girls, and that they were being forced to work for the man who had taken them.

At the time the girl was taken, she was on her way to school. She said that she was being taken to the home of a man who was known to her as "Uncle Sam." She said that she was being held in a room with two other girls, and that they were being forced to work for the man who had taken them. She said that she was being held in a room with two other girls, and that they were being forced to work for the man who had taken them.

Arriving at the alleged shack, she was taken to a room where she was held. She said that she was being held in a room with two other girls, and that they were being forced to work for the man who had taken them.

About midnight she began to search for a method of escape, and she found a way out of the shack. She said that she was being held in a room with two other girls, and that they were being forced to work for the man who had taken them.

Her mother, who was alerted by the girl's story, went to the home of the man who had taken her. She said that she was being held in a room with two other girls, and that they were being forced to work for the man who had taken them.

The young girl also claims that she was being held in a room with two other girls, and that they were being forced to work for the man who had taken them. She said that she was being held in a room with two other girls, and that they were being forced to work for the man who had taken them.

There apparently was no injury done to the girl and the only mark on her was a slight mark across her back.

Navy Hopes to Spend $400,000,000 in Year

Washington, June 27 (AP).—High officials here today said the navy during the fiscal year that begins Saturday.

Already $238,000,000 has been set aside by President Roosevelt from public works money for new ship construction in a three-year program. Secretary Swanson has fixed $45,000,000 as the minimum for the first year's expenditure on 22 vessels.

This brings the fiscal year's assured expenditures to $278,000,000 of cash withdrawals from regular appropriations plus the $45,000,000 to $323,000,000.

But in addition the navy plans shore station construction and plant modernization ashore and afloat to cost about $45,000,000. To do this, though, it must get that amount from the public works fund in a new allocation.

Then 1934 naval construction plans would set up like this: $45,000,000 for ships under construction.

$45,000,000 for modernization of new ships.

$45,000,000 for modernization of old ships.

Norman H. Davis To Visit President

Lakeman Harbor, Roque Island, Me., June 26 (AP).—Disarmament with the call of the sea for presidential attention today as President Roosevelt looked forward to a visit from his ambassador-at-large, Norman H. Davis.

The destroyer, which also carries the President's son James back from Boston, left about 5 o'clock last night.

Upon catching up with the Amberjack, Davis was expected to go aboard and on over with the President the general European situation, and especially disarmament.

The varieties of the weather made it uncertain just where the contact between the two vessels would be established. When the President's ship was sighted, a thick fog set in, for which kept the Amberjack locked in this faraway anchorage all day yesterday still clinging about the schooner.

Hailed just around the point from his destination—his mother's summer place at Campobello Island, N. H., the President spent the time playing and swapping terms with his sons Franklin and John.

With little relief promised for the day, crop damage in western Minnesota so severe that "threshing machines will not be needed," was the message from Andrew Ross, Minnesota State economist.

When prices jumped to $1.00 a bushel at Port Wentz, Tex., the tender while at Chicago May wheat sold at 99 1/2 cents.

LOTTE COLL NOW ACCUSED OF FIRST DEGREE MURDER

New York, June 27 (AP).—Lottie Coll is now accused of first degree murder, for which the penalty is death in the electric chair.

The 26-year-old widow of Vincent J. Coll, slain "bad man" of gangland, was arrested last week with two men on suspicion. Then detectives accused them of a string of holdups.

Last night they were charged with killing Miss Nellie Schwartz, 21, during an attempted robbery.

When police told Mrs. Coll that the man, Joseph Ventre and Thomas Pace, had confessed, Mrs. Coll smiled.

"If I do my talking at the trial and not tell them," she said.

Seek Inside Details Of Kuhn, Loeb Setup

Washington, June 27 (AP).—Kuhn, Loeb and Company, one of America's foremost private banking houses, was asked today by Senate investigators to give to the public intimate details of set-up and operation.

Following up its investigation of the next few days to review evidence collected from the innermost files of the Kuhn, Loeb firm during the months of preliminary inquiry.

And summoned as the first witness was the central figure of the inquiry, better known to the public as an art patron than as a banker—Otto H. Kahn, two partners, George W. Bonvener and Benjamin J. Buntin, were to share the witness stand with Kahn.

Near the top of the mass of evidence was the balance sheet, showing the firm's financial setup, the partnership agreement under which it operates.

Further down were lists bearing income taxes and documents after which the investigators have scoured their evidence, they said, to find out what there were no lists of selected clients, like those that are kept by the Kuhn, Loeb and Company, but only through other houses.

Witnesses were asked to give details of the firm's financial setup, the partnership agreement under which it operates.

London, June 27 (AP).—Representative Sam D. McReynolds, addressing the commercial policy committee of the world economic conference today, struck back at charges that the United States had gone nationalistic. The Tennessee delegate spoke in a private meeting but his address was made public later at American headquarters. The speech created much comment in conference circles, particularly because he took an opportunity to dive into home politics. Mr. McReynolds, who is chairman of the House of Representatives foreign affairs committee, agreed with foreign spokesmen that the American tariff act of 1930 was unjust and he explained it was a Republican measure.

GUARANTEED—POISE AND POWER

"WE OUGHT to keep at the center of our being a core of quietness."

We have that from James Gorman, Gaiety, author of "Secrets of Effective Living."

And if we can accomplish this we need know nothing more of secrets of good living. For with a "core of quietness" at the center of our being we shall need nothing more to live effectively.

A core of quietness. Just these words do something to you in an immediate effect of soothing calm. Think what it means in a world of strife and strain and pressure to be able to maintain such an inner sanctuary.

It has been done. It is being done. But by the rare few. These few are the people of compelling personality, the ones who just radiate power and leadership. For it is by their inner "core of quietness" that they are in command of themselves, which is the only way to achieve and maintain command of others.

With a "core of quietness" at the center of your being you are like a rock, impervious to attack. No matter how disconcerting influences may beat around you, no matter what the outward pressure, you retain your power, your poise, your awareness. You are like a modern soldier in a modern car with high-powered weapons against a primitive man with an arsenal of stones. You cannot be turned off your course, you cannot be frightened, intimidated, demoralized. Your standards are never in danger, your head level, no matter what happens. It guarantees that you will be of help and inspiration to others.

To have that "core of quietness" at the center of one's being is of particular importance to a woman. She is the one to whom a family is entrusted by stress and strain comes home for comforting, for wise judgment and sound advice, for balance and rest.

DEALT WITH CORPORATIONS

Washington, June 27 (AP).—Otto H. Kahn, senior partner in Kahn, Loeb & Company, 86-year-old New York banking house, testified to a senate banking committee today that the chief business of the giant concern was with corporations.

The noted art patron, a native of Germany, sat in his chair sideways and talked in a distant dialect under questioning by Ferdinand Pecora, the St. Louis-born committee counsel.

Only the first two rows of seats reserved for spectators in the immense hearing room were filled as the investigation into private banking was picked up where it left off ten days ago with the inquiry into J. P. Morgan and Company.

A New Serial by Ruby M. Ayres

George had a good time this afternoon, Robin said. "I had a good lunch," she admitted. "The server had such a laugh in my face. We started with mutton, and then I had a chocolate cake. It was all over it."

Chapter 11 ABOUT LIFE

It was Nicholas who broke the silence. "I was thinking of George down from her seventh heaven with a faint smile."

"You had a good time this afternoon, Robin said. "I had a good lunch," she admitted. "The server had such a laugh in my face. We started with mutton, and then I had a chocolate cake. It was all over it."

"It all sounds a bit chilly," Nicholas said. "I wasn't," George answered. "We had hot things in between. I should like to have a lunch like that every day."

"You'd soon get tired of it. One gets tired of everything," George sounded doubtful. "I've never had very much to get tired of."

"That's where you are fortunate," he told her. "It's when people have a surfeit of everything that they get bored and weary and begin to look round for something which they can't have."

"What things they can't have?" "Things which belong to other people."

"Like other people's husbands," George thought. She felt rather than saw that he turned to look at her.

"I envy you," he said suddenly. "You know so little of life—and you will have such fun finding out all about it."

"Did you find it fun?" "Did I? Well, I found it out very differently from the way you will. I found it out artificially, among people who don't really count a great deal."

"I think film people count enormously. If you mean them," George said. "Look at the pleasure they give people like me. Why, before I ever knew you, you'd given me so much to think about—"

"And since you've known me, the great disillusion has set in, I suppose," Boyd said cynically. "It's a mistake for people like me to ever appear in the flesh. Not that I count one iota now."

"You count a lot of lots," George said. "More lots than I did before."

There was a little silence, then Boyd said. "Some day, Robin, you will make a man very happy."

She laughed a little tremulously. "I would much rather that some man made me happy," she told him. "I think it must be wonderful to have someone all your own, to know that when he comes to the house, he comes to see you; to know that you can write to him and tell him how much you love him and tell him how much you love him and tell him how much you love him."

George leaned her arms on the gate and stared up at the moon. "It seems funny that everyone in the world looks at the same moon, doesn't it?" she said suddenly. "We here, and Mother in America, and tomorrow you in Germany. By the way, Mother is coming home. She arrives next Friday, the twenty-second," she added with sudden remembrance of that cable.

"Does she? Are you glad?" "I don't know. I suppose I ought to be."

There was a little silence, then Boyd said abruptly: "Your friend Asher... is his father a doctor by any chance?"

George did some swift thinking. If she said yes, Nicholas might think she had been discussing him.

With nothing but his extraordinary memory to guide him, Bert Seip takes his load of letters, packages and cards to deliver them to their respective addresses. Mr. Seip has been carrying his route at Lake Zurich, Ill., for 30 years. Every day he makes his rounds—but he has yet to make a mistake.

Real estate transactions in Olive on June 28, 1890, included the following: Phoebe Personous to Catherine Dwyer and Catherine Dwyer to Philip Dwyer. The parties were residents of the heights section of the west side of the Esopus Creek.

The Rev. George W. Gulick of Newburgh, who on Thursday evening, June 29, will make the charge to the pastor at the ordination and installation of Arthur E. Oudemool as pastor of the Plattekill and High Woods Reformed Churches, is a former resident of Shokan, having served as pastor of the Shokan and Mt. Tremper Churches about eighteen years ago. The Rev. Mr. Gulick has a number of friends here who follow his career with interest; he was one of the best preachers the church has ever had, and much of the success which attended the activities of the Men's Community Club was due to his personality and zealous efforts.

The many friends in this section of John B. Winne learned with regret of his death in Kingston Saturday morning. Mr. Winne was of a genial nature and an exceptionally sociable disposition; he made everyone feel at home while traveling on the bus line conducted by himself and son, Howard, for eight years through this part of the country. Mr. Winne, though long a resident of Mt. Pleasant, just over the town line, was as well known in Olive as in his native Shandaken.

The measles epidemic has played out here, no new cases having been reported in two weeks, though there have been sporadic outbreaks of the disease in other parts of the town during June.

CATCHES BROOK TROUT WITH ARTIFICIAL FLY AS A LURE. Shokan, June 26.—James Carpenter, a summer resident, caught two fine brook trout in the Esopus Creek at Boiceville Saturday at about ten o'clock, using an artificial fly as a lure. A short time before catching these two beauties, "Jim" had come in for a bit of joshing by a friend, who asserted with some show of confidence that "no trout will rise for a fly after dark."

Mr. Carpenter, who is a bond salesman with a large trust company in New York city, was wounded in France while a member of the 209th Infantry.

No Fires in Reservoir Section. Shokan, June 26.—Although the forest fire hazard has perhaps never been greater than during the month of June, no fires have taken place in the north-reservoir section. In the event that the woods do blaze up at some point around here, the 209 men at Camp Olive, three miles up the boulevard, constitute a valuable potential fire fighting force for assisting the city's patrol and the individual smoke-eaters.

IS IT WORTH WHILE?

One of the jokes a few years back was regarding the physician who having had the patient's tonsils removed and also all his teeth, didn't know what next to do as the patient still had the pain.

As a matter of fact in most cases when the infected tonsils or teeth are removed the patient is soon rid of his symptoms although the poison may remain in the system for months, and even years after the operation.

The natural question would be how is one to know whether the removal of infected teeth or tonsils really does cure or clear up rheumatism, heart, kidney and other diseases in the body.

Dr. R. Platt records the history of 95 cases of nephritis—inflammation of the kidneys—admitted to the Royal Infirmary, Sheffield, between 1924 and 1929 which were followed up to 1932. These cases were classified according to whether (1) infected tonsils and teeth were present but not removed; (2) not found; and (3) found and removed.

Only those cases were followed which showed severe symptoms at first, and then got definitely well after the severe symptoms had passed. What did the records show in 1932?

Of 30 cases with infection of teeth, tonsils or other parts, not removed, 16 were well, 2 doubtful, 4 ill, 7 had had further attacks, and 1 had died.

Of 28 cases with no infection, re-examination showed that 16 were well, 2 doubtful, 2 ill, 6 had had further attacks and 2 had died.

Of 22 cases in whom infection had been found in tonsils, teeth, sinus, and this infection had been removed, all were well. The removal of the tonsils was the operation performed in nearly every case; a few teeth were removed, and one antrum (sinus) was drained.

The results of this investigation show that the removal of these different points of infection, tonsils particularly, has a favorable influence on the course of acute nephritis.

The operation was not done until after the patient had recovered from the attack of nephritis.

I believe that the above proves that the removal of infection is very much worth while in preventing further attacks of this acute inflammation of the kidneys, just as it is in the prevention of rheumatism and heart disease.

West Shokan, June 26.—The hot week-end weather caused a general exodus among metropolitan area folks. Maple Dell was filled quite a few weeks after its divorce. The truth is we have taught the Americans a lesson in how to manage in a hot country. Why should we reproach them with applying what they have learned?

I think the conference would do well to adjourn until President Roosevelt is ready to meet the European powers, that is, to wait until price levels in the United States have risen to those of the pre-crisis period which probably was during the 1924-27 era. Unless we adjourn now, nerves will be less we adjourn now, nerves will be

Sundown Stories

Quick Action

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

The whistle of the train could be heard in the far distance, but the animals knew that it took only a short time for the train to reach the place where the tracks were washed away.

"What are we going to do?" barked Rip, the dog.

"We've got to do something," said Honey Bear.

"Something isn't enough," said Top Notch, the Rooster.

"We've got to do more than that. In fact, we've got to do something in particular."

"It's the passenger train, too," said Rip. "Sometimes I've seen it go by when I've been taking a walk and it's always filled with people. I have seen them looking out the windows at the scenery and I've wagged my tail just as I've seen children wave their hands to passing trains."

"We mustn't waste any more time talking," said Jelly Bear, excitedly. "We must think at once what to do. Let's all think very hard for one minute. That's about all the time we have."

The whistle of the train sounded nearer. They could tell it was traveling very fast. Little did the people on that train know that ahead of them were washed-away tracks.

Suddenly all the animals spoke at once. "We must flag the train. We must stop it!"

"We'll hurry down just a little distance so we can stop it before it reaches danger," growled Jelly Bear.

"Hurry, hurry, hurry, we haven't a second to lose." The train was coming nearer, nearer, nearer. They could see the engine's smoke.

"Adorable". Clever and stinging give this picture a radiant quality with Jane Garret more winsome and lovely than ever in the role of a princess who meets a heartless man of the great servant's hall, and who finally falls in love. It's light, airy, and amusing with a number of clever gags. Henry Garat, European comedian making his talkie debut in this country, plays Miss Garret's soldier lover with grace and ability. The picture gives Janet Gaynor her best screen story in some time, and she proves again that she is one of the most charming and lovable actresses of the screen today. Herbert Mundin and C. Aubrey Smith are in the cast. William Dieterle directed. Orpheum: "Evening For Sale" and "Behind Stone Walls." Herbert Marshall carries away all the honors in the first attraction, a story of a child's adventures, turned into a comedy of "pewee." It's a clever, talkie, romantic and exciting in parts. Mary Boland and Lucien Littlefield are good in featured parts. "Behind Stone Walls" is a prison drama, with Robert Elliott, Ann Christy, Priscilla Dean and Eddie Nugent.

"International House." Some director must have said a little dream to conceive this film, a mad tale of a Chinese inventor and his representatives from all nations tread a beaten path to his door in an effort to purchase Dr. Wong's great brain child. Gags, gags, gags, with some hilarity dancing etc. thrown in with wild production. Movie stars, radio stars, stage stars, and Peggy Joyce, who was famous in the world's most successful vaudeville woman, are all in the cast. Crooning Rudy Vallee, playing the role of a Chinese inventor, with Burns and Gracie Allen, playing the role of a radio skits. Stuart Erwin, Sam Maritza, and Bob Luman are among the many to be found in International House. A show with a multitude of talent and a minimum of plot. Orpheum: "Sailors' Luck" and "Clint's Pay Day." James Dunn and Sally Eilers are co-starring again in this romantic story of a sailor on shore leave, and a girl without a name. Both Mr. Dunn and Miss Eilers make the most of a true story, and the show proves to be above average entertainment. "Clint's Pay Day" offers Forrest Stanley and Dorothy Revier in an average drama of sin and the consequences.

Seven Wise Men
The names of the seven wise men of Greece include Solon, Chilo, Pittacus, Bias, Pericles (in place of whom some give Epimenides), Cleobulus and Thales. They were the authors of the celebrated maxims inscribed in later days in the Delphic temple. The maxims were as follows:
"Know thyself."—Solon.
"Consider the end."—Chilo.
"Know thy opportunity."—Pittacus.
"Most men are bad."—Bias.
"Nothing is impossible to industry."—Pericles.
"Avoid excesses."—Cleobulus.
"Suretyship is the precursor of ruin."—Thales.

The Hostile Phase

By ALICE JUDSON PEASE
Betty, 3 years old, suddenly, has begun to exhibit a contrary and hostile attitude toward her mother.

Every point in the day's routine has become a departure for argument, stalling and flat refusal. The mother is the more baffled and distressed, since she can discover in the new treatment of Betty nothing which would account for so violent a change.

Such a development frequently occurs in little girls between the ages of 2 and 3 and is caused by underlying emotional changes. At this time the little girl normally shifts her greatest attachment from the person of her mother to that of her father. This is likely to be especially marked when a new baby arrives in the family at this time.

The mother needs at this time to be especially patient and affectionate to help the child to find as many real satisfactions as possible in play. She must beware of meeting the child's hostility with hostility of her own lest a breach occur which will make impossible later a cordial and happy relationship with her daughter.

WEST SHOKAN

West Shokan, June 26.—The valley's hub of attraction is the newly established state conservation camp located along the main highway in Shokan. The camp is a vivid reminder of the early war days of 1917 when military companies were sent to a stand over the Shokan reservoir. The camp is a vivid reminder of the early war days of 1917 when military companies were sent to a stand over the Shokan reservoir.

Mr. Bell, sturdy son of Mr. Olive, celebrated his birthday on Tuesday, June 27. Mr. Bell is a member of the service of the New York State Forest. He is a member of the service of the New York State Forest. He is a member of the service of the New York State Forest.

"How Ikey Blow," is still a familiar phrase coming down through the years before waterworks days. It was brought back vividly to many West Shokan residents through the recent very excellent writeup under Shokan headline regarding the famous Sheepskin Farmers Band. The martial footstep of those rugged upland musicians, together with their stirring melodious memories still echo vividly along the corridors of time.

Orin Ellsworth, well known North Main street carpenter, has secured employment in Kingston. The Ellsworth family, who have established a very attractive home at North Main Street Heights, feel they have a debt of gratitude to repay Contractor Albert North for the conscientious and highly capable manner in which the various phases of the work have been done.

On Sunday evening Mrs. Ella Loomis of Phoenix, together with her charming daughter, Harriet, formerly of the old village, called on Mrs. Watson Bishop and Mrs. Chase Davis. Miss Loomis, who is a talented musician, favored with several pleasing selections during the course of the evening's visit.

Judge Fred L. Weidner, hustling North Main street variety farmer, farm machinery dealer, generous and experienced a busy day on Saturday. There were several judicial cases coming up for disposal, New York state bee inspectors to entertain calls for having machinery demonstrations besides the regular farm routine. But somehow or other the busy old gentleman manages to "smile through."

Mrs. Early North of North Main street, who has been ill in bed for many weeks, is now able to sit out on the porch. Her many friends hope for a continuance in her stage of recovery.

Cards received from Prof. and Mrs. Arthur Condon of Palenville come from various points of interest along their sojourning trip through the upper New England States.

Mrs. Francis Bell of Sunrise Cottage, overlooking North Main street, here for the summer's stay, entertained her son, Stewart, and family of Poughkeepsie on Sunday. DELIGHTFUL PARTY HELD AT TRAVEL HOLLOW.

West Shokan, June 26.—On Thursday afternoon, June 22, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Martin J. Every in picturesque Traver Hollow was the scene of a very unique and pleasant gathering consisting of prominent group of Kingstonian ladies. The occasion was brought about by Mr. and Mrs. Every's charming daughter, Mrs. Joseph Mooney of 103 Elmendorf street, as hostess, entertaining the members of her bridge club on the shady lawn of the beloved old homestead, cloistered with its hallowed memories of carefree days.

Among the group of guests so delightfully entertained were the following: Mrs. Robert Martin, Mrs. Georgia Freer, Mrs. Earl R. Haley, Mrs. Frank Tease, Mrs. Adeline Freer, Miss Ella Freer, Mrs. Claude Donohoe and daughter, Patsy, Mrs. M. E. Lutz and daughter, Doris, Mrs. John Retican, Mrs. Anna West, Mrs. C. G. Reardon, Mrs. C. K. Tease, Miss Marjorie Tease, Miss Ernestine Lair, also the congenial Mr. and Mrs. Every and last but by no means least, the hostess, Mrs. Mooney.

The afternoon was spent in part by a bridge tourney. The members of the club presented a travel book to Mrs. Donahoe, who with her son, Elwood, are due to sail on a Mediterranean cruise July 1st.

With the longest day of the year drawing to a close and the lengthening shadow of majestic Samuel's Point creeping silently over the cloistered valley, and appetites whetted keen by the afternoon's activities and pine scented atmosphere wafted down from the reunion picnic grove nearby, the tables were spread by fairy hands and just the most completely picnic menu possible enjoyed by everyone. Such an occasion as this was one of the happy moments of a lifetime and it was finally with much regret that the time for returning came. Words ringing sincere felicitations were bestowed upon both Mrs. Mooney, the graceful charming hostess, and her parents, who with faces in smiles welcomed all to return again in the not too distant future.

We have many volumes of good sayings, but not a book which sets out explicitly the silences of the wise and the great.

ESPECIALLY GOOD WEATHER FOR HAY HARVESTING

West Shokan, June 26.—Drouth or no the past week has been one exceptionally well adapted for hay harvesting. Farmers generally are taking the prevailing opportunity in hand or plan to turn the mower loose at the first opportunity. At West Shokan Heights Chase and Elwyn Davis expect to clean up the crop within another week of such weather. Last week 20 fat loads went in the spacious hay mow, this an all time record for these upland farmers. Good weather and good help make for a salubrious haying.

Shokan, June 26.—Work on the cement flooring of the aerator is going on as well as can be expected considering the reduced force of men on the job. In former years a number of the temporary men have assisted in the work but these have not been called into service this spring. The aerator repairs consist of an annual chore for the city, for the damage to the floor being variously attributed to action of the frost, extremely high pressure and other causes.

A Washington Daybook

By HERBERT PLUMMER

WASHINGTON—When President Roosevelt dispatched his letters of commendation to the house and senate after congress had finally gotten around to where it could adjourn, he made the wording of the two notes identical. To both Vice President John N. Garner and Speaker Henry T. Rainey he lauded the "spirit of teamwork" and the "sincere and wholehearted cooperation" which had been shown him.

But looking back over the past three months in which the special session went about its grueling task of working out the President's emergency legislative program, one gets the impression that it was the house which gave Mr. Roosevelt the least trouble.

The last few days of the session provided evidence of this. While the senate was in a snarl over proposed reductions in veterans' compensation and the President was standing pat, it was the house which backed him up, and soon the recalcitrant senate came back into line.

Not Always Easy And so it was during almost all the special session, in virtually every instance the representatives were behind the administration.

Sometimes it was a rather difficult thing to do, too. The regularity with which their leaders used the iron-clad special rules on various bills was hard to take, but members did, and more often than not with a sort of graciousness.

Apparently many of the representatives relegated themselves to the background during the special session that the administration's program might be enacted. New members, sitting for the first time, with their political future depending, perhaps, on what they accomplished or said at the special session, kept silent.

They cast their votes in some instances for bills which they had not even seen.

A Gentle Hint? But with all that, the question persists as to just what was the power exerted by President Roosevelt that kept the house in line on the veterans' compensation question? Decision to stand by the President was reached in a democratic conference and not a caucus. The conference board them in no way.

Congressional talk has it that in the conference Majority Leader Bryan restated the democratic gently that it was the belief of recognized authorities that the best workable party majority is that of 59 or 60. The implication would seem to be that for party purposes the overwhelming number of democrats in the house at the present is not necessary.

Perhaps those inclined to rebel took note. None relished the idea of having the support of the national party withdrawn when something time rolls around next year.

My husband introduced me to Luckies

He had no objection to my brand of cigarettes. But, one day he asked me to try his. Well, I did—and I've been saying "Luckies Please" ever since. And it's not merely because Luckies taste fine and are ever so mild. Let me tell you the real reason.

My cigarette is a personal, intimate thing with me. After all, it touches my lips—and I do take pride in my sense of daintiness. Naturally, "Toasting" means to me even more than it does to a man—for purity is something very precious to a fastidious woman.

"BALANCED VALUE"

15 miles or more to the gallon is what owners say the Pontiac Straight Eight gives them. And Pontiac continues to do so, even after thousands of miles of use.

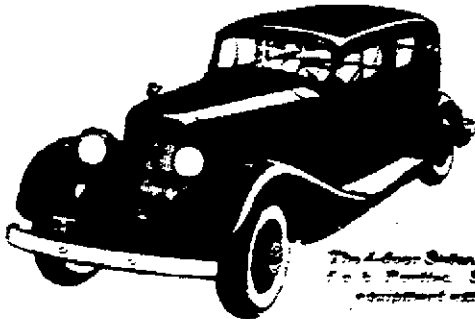

Such operating efficiency can come from only one thing—and that is Balanced Design, which means that each part is scientifically balanced and related to all the others—so that all strains are equalized for uniform life and durability. This in turn means Balanced Value.

Come in for a demonstration. You'll agree then that Pontiac deserves its increasing sales.

Remember it takes all of these qualities: Economy—Durability—Comfort—Safety—Performance—Appearance (not only some of them) to make a modern car.

Financial and Commercial

New York, June 27 (AP).—Financial markets resumed their forward push today in the wake of the farming boom, but the swift pace was cut down somewhat by heavy realizing in all categories.

Wheat again proved the bellwether with advances of 4 or more cents a bushel, but corn, rye, oats and barley were only slightly behind. Profit taking shaded most of these sales, however, in later trading. Cotton got up about $1 a bale before turning back to around its closing level of yesterday.

Bar silver reflected optimistic activities at the London economic conference with a spurt of 1 1/2 cents an ounce to 35 1/2 cents. The British pound sterling advanced to a post-war gold standard high at $4.35 1/2 and leading European exchanges reached new peaks for the past year or more.

Trading in the share market was extremely active most of the day with the ticker tape generally several minutes later than floor transactions. Rail stocks, aside from a few of the recently spurring industrial specialties, were in greatest demand. Peak prices were attained in the first hour or so and then there was a moderate softening of quotations.

With commodity prices reaching for higher and higher levels and factory production expanding, financial interests are now paying particular attention to the important matter of consumption. While trade reports report increased public buying in most of the large centers of the country, the proportion, or ratio, of consumption is still considerably behind production in many lines.

At the same time, it is pointed out, the big spending program of the government has not yet had time to reflect expanded incomes and until this phase of national improvement becomes more defined, consumption estimates must necessarily be highly conjectural.

POULTRY

USES CHICKENS TO SAVE SUGAR BEETS

Farmer Allows Cockerels to Feast on Insects.

A Colorado farmer saved his sugar beet crop last year by letting his 300 young cockerels run in the field and feast on fly worms and webworms which infested it.

At the same time neighbors around him lost practically all of their beets to these destructive insect pests. When he first noticed the worms moving in on his young beets, the World was veteran and former Colorado Aggie student pulled both brooders in which the Leghorn cockerels were housed to the edge of the field and turned them loose.

The birds spread out all over the field and followed along the rows, gobbling up the worms on one plant after another, the farmer told the extension poultryman for the agricultural college. It was much cheaper than spraying to kill the worms, he says. At the same time the young roosters grew rapidly.

Not a single beet was lost to the worms, he says, but a few plants were destroyed by being trampled by the chickens near the brooder houses. This could largely be prevented, it is believed, by placing the brooder houses some distance apart, and perhaps not too close to the beets.

It is suggested that other sugar beet growers might try the plan in controlling insect pests. It is recommended that cockerels used for this purpose be fed a grain ration for two or three weeks to put them into condition for the market. Large flocks of young turkeys have been used to control alfalfa webworms in many instances.

Keep the Cooties Off Biddy, Out of Henhouse

Any ex-soldier can sympathize most heartily with the plight of a hen or a pullet shut up with a good infestation of lice to make things lively for her.

The A. E. F. boys know how to get rid of their unclean visitors but unfortunately Biddy cannot "read her shirt." Neither can she dip her clothes in hot water or use a flat-iron.

It is easy, however, to put her through a delousing process which will leave her clean and free from vermin. Just a little nicotine solution painted along the tops of the roosts will furnish fumes which knock dead the lice that are on the birds. Experiments carried on privately and by experiment station officials, under the most carefully controlled scientific conditions, prove this solution to be almost infallible as a louse destroyer. If lice are present in the house, this treatment with the nicotine solution will destroy numbers of them. However, in addition, the house should be thoroughly cleaned up and sprayed with a solution made up of three tablespoonsful of nicotine solution to a gallon of water to which a cube of soap one inch each way, has been added.—Wisconsin Agriculturist.

Summer Feeding Pays

Flock owners sometimes feel that because their hens are not laying so much in the summer it is not necessary to feed them as well as they do earlier in the year. This is a mistake, for neither body condition nor egg production can be maintained under these conditions, says a writer in Successful Farming. Adult birds should be given careful attention as to feeding, since the maintenance of egg production will add considerably to the profits. This means seeing to it that they get a good egg-laying mash all the time and that this mash is supplemented by a grain ration fed at the rate of about ten pounds per 100 birds per day. An additional reason for feeding an egg-laying ration is that it is impossible to cull accurately unless an egg ration is fed. The proper feeding of adults also serves to prevent a molt. The longer a molt can be prevented, the better. As a rule the later that birds molt, the shorter time it takes them to get over it.

Poultry Briefs

A bantam rooster hatched at Leesburg, Ga., is so small its owner keeps it in a bird cage.

Grain is fed primarily for maintaining the body, whereas the mash contains the nutrients necessary for egg production.

The largest Asiatic roosters are the abnormal giants of races in which the males that are best in flesh development weigh about 12 pounds.

Massachusetts Extension Poultryman W. C. Monahan offers as the best substitute for "luck" in growing chickens "clean chicks, clean brooders, clean lands, clean feeding and watering, and clean management"—a worthwhile program.

The tobacco plant contributes still another valuable product to the poultry keeper. It is a new nicotine compound that is effective as a single dose flock treatment for intestinal parasites. Don't confuse this with tobacco dust, which is a repeat proposition.

FATHER SCULLY GIVES PULPIT TO ST. MARY'S CHURCH

The Rev. Joseph B. Scully, former pastor of St. Mary's Church in this city, presented a beautiful gift to the church—an exquisitely carved oak pulpit, which has been placed in the sanctuary of the main altar.

The pulpit stands some five feet and cut through its thick panels is the inscription, "Go Teach Ye All Nations." This has been beautifully done in fancy letters with a striking design filling the remainder of the rectangular spaces devoted to the inscription.

The two adoring angels supporting the book rest, are superb products of the carver William Hoppe. This along with the many other designs so skillfully cut make the pulpit one of the most outstanding gifts of modern genius.

The gift was purchased from William Schwarzwald & Company in Chicago, and has inscribed on the inside, "Presented by Very Rev. J. B. Scully—1933—William Hoppe, wood carver and V. L. S. Hafner, architect." Each name is on a different panel.

CHIC LINEN SUIT

By CHRISTIE NICHOLAS

Those who know fashions are all enthusiastic over the idea of linen as a medium for the new jacket suits. The new trend weave linens are as soft as fine woolen and the beauty of them is that they crush little, if at all. Smart Parisiennes have started the vogue of the dark blouse with the natural colored linen suit, brown or navy organdie being especially sponsored for these blouses. The young woman in the picture has chosen to wear a navy and white striped blouse with a soft-tinted navy scarf with her attractive noncrushable tweed linen suit.

Very springlike are the flowers of the new gay crisp organdie blouses. Some of the very newest ones are of crinkly organdie with stripes like seersucker. Others are of blistered organdie. Still others are of the sheer starched organdie.

Nebuchadnezzar Busy Man Nebuchadnezzar's policy of transplanting the people of conquered peoples first to Babylon, and then by detachments from many of the nationalities to partially fill up the vacancies thus created, gave him control of an immense amount of human power. He also acquired a tremendous booty of gold and other wealth by his conquests.

Soybean Oil Soybean oil, as the name implies, is a vegetable oil obtained from the mature seed of the soybean plant. It is classified technically as a seed-drying oil, which merely means to say that its capacity to dry is not equal to that of the classic example of a drying oil—linseed oil, but is superior to that of the non-drying oils, such as cottonseed oil. This capacity to dry is of extreme importance especially in one great industry, the paint industry.

HOLLYWOOD
SIGHTS & SOUNDS

By ROBBIN COONS
HOLLYWOOD—One of Hollywood's oldest musical administration offices is composed of Marie Dressler and May Robson.

Marie says she things about May, "May—Marie May! It's a good name for a stage name. It has a good ring to it. I would like to say all the nice things I can about Marie."

Just 35 years they've been close friends. The stage treated May perhaps more kindly than it did Marie. In Marie's 50 years she has never made a season. There were times when Marie thought she was done—washed out—as Hollywood puts it.

From Marie's conquest of the stage has made history, and the stage she set for screen character actors has made Marie's path to triumph perhaps a little easier.

Sold On Movies

"Isn't it wonderful?" beams Marie, praising the movies, not her part in them. "It used to be a specialty and a nightmare to all of us on the stage: what would happen to us when we got too old? Now the movies have answered the question. We just come to Hollywood. We know they can't get along without us," she adds, eyes twinkling slyly.

Marie was in costume, the rough sea-faring outfit of "Tugboat Annie." May, at another studio, was in costume too. By coincidence she's "Apple Annie," star of "Madame La Gimp." Neither May nor Marie has any thought of quitting work.

It was Marie who persuaded May to sign with M-G-M. May was hesitating, but Marie said, "Go ahead, May, don't be a fool!" May tells that. She tells also, when an executive comes up to compliment her on her work, what Marie said to her. Marie said, "May, if you don't make a hit in that part, I'm going to brain you and hang you. That's what I'm going to do."

"I'll tell Marie what you said," says May happily to the executive.

Marie And The Rules

Of an evening Marie and May often play cards together. Double solitaire, rummy—and Marie's trying to teach May backgammon. May admits she hasn't as good a head for cards as Marie. And—sh-h-h—she has a grievance against her old friend.

"I'd say if she were sitting right here," exclaims Marie, "I'd believe Marie makes her own rules!"

ROCHESTER CENTER SCHOOL
CLOSED FOR THE SUMMER

Rochester Center, June 27—The Rochester Center School closed for the summer vacation this week. A picnic was held the last day of school. The teacher served from sticks to the children. Guests were Miss Edith Quick and Miss Virginia Christy of Mettuchon and Miss Kathleen Caldwell of Connecticut. Games were played and a good time was enjoyed by all.

Promotions were as follows: Myrtle Quick and Charlotte Gray to eighth grade; Gloria Allen, Franklin Hyatt and Robert Allen to seventh grade; Glenford Quick, Mary Gray and Chester Gray to fifth grade; Shirley Allen, Ellen Gray and Albert Osterhout to fourth grade; Donald Hyatt and Betty Benjamin to third grade; George Benjamin to first.

Those who received certificates for reading 50 books were: Mary Gray, Gloria Allen, Myrtle Quick and Franklin Hyatt. All the other children got certificates for reading at least six books although none read less than 15 books except those who moved into the district during the last month of school.

Aaron Bell took William Ward Hutchins, the Rochester Center school teacher, to his home in Pulaski, N. Y., where he will spend the summer with his parents, except for the time which he will spend at Oswego State Normal School. Blythe E. Bushaw and Charles Keider accompanied them on the trip.

CROPS DUE FOR SERIOUS
FAILURE UNLESS RAIN COMES

West Shokan, June 26—The early local drought continues. All vegetation is greatly in need of rain as is attested on every hand by faltering gardens, growing field crops, pastures and hay, while lawns are quite as browned in places as in a conventional late summer drought. Streams are exceedingly low, and sources of water supply failing. Unless rain comes soon planted crops of all kinds are due for serious failure. However, as heretofore when things seemed right on the verge of despair an unexpected rain has changed the aspect almost overnight.

Springs Which Have Never Failed.
 Shokan, June 26—Drouths hold no terrors, insofar as water for household and livestock uses is concerned, for John Secor and James Rutherford, farmers and neighbors in the Tonawanda section, both have springs which have never been known to fail, that of Mr. Secor being located close to the house and barn, surrounded by lilac bushes and tiger lily beds of the old Simmons homestead, while the Rutherford spring comes out under a big rock only a few feet from the farm house door. Water supplies such as these are a source of immeasurable satisfaction and comfort in trying times of drouth like the present.

Port Ewen School Principal Resigns

Port Ewen, June 27.—Professor David Davis has tendered his resignation as principal of school No. 12, Port Ewen, to take effect July 1. Professor Davis began his teaching career in district No. 14, town of Marlinton, in September 1896. He has taught continuously since that time, excepting from 1904 to 1905, during that time he was engaged in other work in New York city, including the Metropolitan police department and Adams Express Company. All Mr. Davis's teaching has been in schools in Ulster county. He came to Port Ewen January 1, 1929, from Poughkeepsie, where he had been principal of the late superintendency of P. O. Gifford. Mr. Davis is an earnest and conscientious worker and always at the best interests of the children and the school at heart. Under his principalship 245 pupils completed the elementary course and entered high school. During his years as principal of the school, Mr. Davis has gained the affection of hundreds of children and the high esteem of their parents and friends. While every one regrets losing Mr. Davis as principal of the school they understand his desire for a well earned rest from school activities. Mr. Davis, who owns a home in Port Ewen, expects to remain in this place. The Board of Education has secured to succeed him as principal Edgar D. Lewis of Cornwall. Mr. Lewis comes to this school well recommended. He is a graduate of the Albany State College and for several years has been principal of the Eldredge Central School.

Is Your Bathing Suit Monogrammed

(Copyright, 1933, by Fairchild)

Above is the two-piece pajama of seaphy knit in navy, red and white. The striped jacket has a drawstring neckline featuring a rope tie, and may be worn in this manner or with the closing at the back in more novel effect, as one retail shop has already suggested. Below, is a mailot suit of silk and wool knit introducing white for the straps, uplift brassiere section and the monogram applique as contrast for navy.

That Schoolgirl Collar Line

New York—It is getting to be a somewhat difficult matter to keep from looking too dressed up. Simple clothes are hard to find, and usually cost more than the elaborate ones. Now that there is anything new about that, but with so many frills and so much trimming about, one is bound to rediscover the estimable qualities of simple things to wear.

It is a pleasure to report that exaggerated flares and circular effects have been cast into the limbo of things deemed undesirable for everyday wear. For this reason, frilly, flaring evening things have all the more appeal.

It is also a pleasure to report that skirts, for everyday wear, have stopped having their ups and downs. They have settled on remaining some ten to twelve inches from the floor. This again makes the change from short skirts, into the longer ones always worn for evening, a very welcome one.

On the whole, women voice their approval of summer dresses that, while sleeveless, manage to hide the upper part of the arm. There is a sort of tacit understanding among well dressed women this season that they either wear a dress with some sort of shoulder covering, or a jacket or cape over a sleeveless dress when it is worn out of doors.

Possibly you have noticed that this tendency to cover the shoulders extends even to the water's edge. There are all manner of amusing little jackets, shoulder rolls, "hug me tight" and so on to slip on over one's bathing suit.

Neckwear counters in the smart shops can supply you with collars that have grown into the cape class, and sometimes fasten with one large pearl button, a very Puritanical arrangement. There are also several versions of the nun's collar and of course the Quaker collar. Such of shoulder coverings, coupled with higher necklines, have a tendency to make women look like schoolgirls.

DID YOU KNOW THAT

It is interesting to observe the number of lightweight woolen dresses in import groups, indicating that cloth dresses will again be important. They are observed in simple coat styles, two-piece arrangements and tunic effects.

Sleeve fullness perches high on the shoulder again, but much of it is worked out through angular seams. The big thing in all designs of shoulders and sleeves in the new imports is based on points.

*What a scientist told the Hollywood stars...

"This soap contains precious elements skin itself has and must have to stay youthful. It's the loss of these elements that makes skin old-looking. This soap checks the loss of these precious elements from the skin."

Cynthia Rogers, Middletown, N. Y., says, "It's amazing how Lux Toilet Soap keeps my skin young-looking."

OF COURSE, the lovely screen stars find this beauty soap marvelous—for years they've used it to keep their skin satin-smooth, radiantly young-looking.

Now scientists explain WHY this soap is such a wonderful aid in keeping skin young-looking.

The Secret of Youthful Skin

Nature puts certain precious elements into all types of skin to keep it youthful; young skin is rich in them. It's the gradual loss of these vital elements, as years go by, that makes skin grow rough, heart-breaking dull and old-looking.

But now scientists tell you, tests show Lux Toilet Soap actually contains precious elements Nature puts in skin itself to keep it youthful. And so it checks the loss of these precious elements from the skin.

This soap, they declare, with its complete freedom from harshness, its ready solubility and its content of precious elements, is a wonderful aid in keeping skin smooth, youthful.

Small wonder so many famous screen stars are enthusiastic about it! 686 out of 694 important Hollywood actresses

Lumbermen Get Off To Good Start in 2nd Half of City League

The first game of the second half of the City Baseball League was played at the Athletic Field Monday evening and it turned out to be a real slugfest with the Schryvers Lumbermen outslugging the Herzog Hardwaremen to win by a score of 10 to 4. The Hardwaremen presented a far better team than the outfit they had in the first half. A large crowd was on hand to witness the contest.

A total of 21 hits, which went for 74 bases, was collected by both teams. The Lumbermen garnered safeties and the Hardwaremen eight. Norm Niles and Jimmy Steigerwald poled home runs. Percy Slover hit a triple, and doubles were fashioned by Carpenter, Leski, Niles, Voelker and Chambers, who hit two. Jimmy Voelker was on the mound for the Lumbermen and went the full route and, of course, got credit for the victory. Rud North and Art shared the pitching burdens for the Hardwaremen. North started, but didn't last long, being blasted off the hill before the first inning was over. North was nipped for three hits, Wood 10.

An error by Flemings, Hardwaremen's first baseman, gave the Lumbermen a life in the first inning and incidentally four runs. Niles was safe on the boot. Voelker drew a pass and Carpenter doubled to right field to score Niles. McGuire punched a single through the left side of the infield and Voelker and Carpenter tallied. Glaser was hit by a pitched ball and Slover singled through North to fill the bases. Then North hit Jansen with a pitched ball and McGuire brought the fourth run home.

The Hardwaremen retaliated in their half of the first inning by scoring two. Flanagan singled to left field. Leski doubled to right field and Chambers poled a double to left field to score Flanagan and Leski. Niles hit his homer in the second inning to give the Lumbermen another tally. In the fourth a walk to Tiano and singles by Voelker, McGuire, Glaser and Slover netted three more runs. Their other two runs came in the fifth.

Chambers' second double drove in the Hardwaremen's third run in the third inning after Flanagan had singled. Jimmy Steigerwald inserted his homer in the sixth inning and brought the scoring to a close. Steigerwald's circuit clout was one of the longest of the season.

SIDELINERS
Norm Niles was lucky to get his homer first as the meal ticket donated by Teale Rose of the Terminal Lunch went with the first one.

Al Flanagan, of Flanagan-Watkins-Archer, will give a Dick Powell shirt and necktie for the next homer.

In the last inning Umpire Joe Carr held up the game. Al Flanagan swung and missed one of Voelker's fast ones and McGuire caught it, but Joe in calling it got off-balance and injured his leg.

Tagging Major League Bases

By ORLO ROBERTSON
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

While the Washington Senators have been hitting the ball to all corners of western ball parks in their march to the top of the American League, Manager Joe Cronin's pitchers also have been playing an important role in establishing a season's major league record for consecutive victories.

With a 4 to 3 triumph over the Cleveland Indians yesterday, the Senators not only increased their lead to two full games over the idle Yankees but won their eighth successive game and their 15th in 16 starts.

Just how effective Washington pitchers have been is shown in their record of allowing opposing teams only 65 hits and an average of 2.5 runs a game in the club's last eight triumphs.

In yesterday's conquest, the third over the Indians, Alvin Crowder and Jack Russell held the Tribe in check in all except the second inning. Oral Hildebrand, ace of the Cleveland mound staff, and Willie Hudlin throught the Senators' attack except in the second inning, when Joe Kuhel blasted out a home run with Fred Schulte on base, and in the eighth when Goose Goslin's triple and singles by Cronin and Bluege gave the league leaders two more runs.

The Athletics got away to an early lead against the White Sox and then with Big Jim Peterson pitching effective relief ball pounded out an 8 to 2 victory.

Peterson replaced Tony Freitas in the second inning with the bases allied. He allowed one run to score and then shut out the Sox the remainder of the way with five scattered hits. Meanwhile his teammates blasted White Sox from the mound and continued their heavy hitting off Joe Herbig. The victory was the A's fifth in six games and the seventh defeat in their last eight games for the pale horse.

With Dusty Rhodes keeping the Browns' nine hits well scattered and pounding out four hits, including a pair of doubles, the Boston Red Sox defeated St. Louis 13 to 5.

The Yankees and Tigers failed to get into action when rain intervened while all of the games of the National League were washed out.

But What Can You Do With A Team Like These Giants?

Above are three reasons why their critics contend the Giants have no business leading the National League. Ortiz and Ryan can't hit, much; Mancuso is erratic and O'Doul can't peg a ball from here to there. But they can win ball games, which, after all, is the main idea.

Sharkey Looks Fit For Carnera Battle

By HERBERT W. BARKER.
Associated Press Sports Writer.

New York, June 27.—Primo Carnera may expect to catch Jack Sharkey out of condition when they step into the ring of Madison Square Garden's Long Island City bowl Thursday night, but if he does, he'll run into an unpleasant surprise.

Jack, at 30, won't be the Sharkey of a few years ago perhaps, but he'll be in first-class shape just the same, trained to the minute and ready for the long 15-round route.

An examination by Dr. Vincent Nardello, of the medical staff of the New York State Athletic Commission, effectively disposed of the question of the champion's condition.

"Sharkey is in better shape physically and mentally," Dr. Nardello said, "than he was when I examined him a year ago for his fight with Max Schmeling. His disposition is greatly improved. He was too much on edge last year, too nervous. Nervous exhaustion is more tiring than any amount of physical effort. I would say Sharkey is every bit as ready as Carnera."

Sharkey as a matter of fact, never has looked better than he did yesterday in a sizzling two-round workout with Hans Birkle, rugged German warrior, at his training camp in Orangeburg, N. Y., the champion was punching viciously to the body with his right hand, snaking punches home with lightning speed, and twice shook up Birkle with left hooks that traveled only inches.

Carnera, meanwhile, wound up his intensive preparations at Pompton Lakes, N. J., by boxing three rounds with Harold Mays and two against Arthur Huttick. Both found the huge Italian easy to hit but hard to hurt. Competent boxing critics expressed surprise over Primo's improvement, especially in boxing skill. Carnera plans no more boxing and

SPORT SLANTS

By ALAN J. COULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor.)

So the big tournaments were just to be a happy-hunting ground for the "hard hats," the playing professionals of the royal and ancient games, when Bob Jones retired from competition?
So what? So it's a sad story, men, and maybe we haven't heard the last of it.

The first year after the Georgian left them to themselves the professionals had George Von Elm, the big "business man," riding hard on them. Finally the issue was put squarely up to Bill Burke, the Connecticut iron worker, who outlasted George in a record-breaking 72-hole playoff at Inverness in the 1931 Open Championship.

The professional organization, known as the P. G. A., was so grateful for this magnificent fight by Burke to make the Open safe once more for the boys who play-for-pay that they forgot him almost entirely in selecting the 1933 Ryder Cup team and only managed to squeeze Bill into the tenth and last place three days before the team sailed for Europe. It took a political campaign to put Burke on the squad, at that, but he made it.

It's a Sad Story.
Now let's wander back to Fresh Meadow. First there was a swarthy fellow from the Argentine, Jose Jurado, who threatened to romp off with the big prize. Then there was T. Phillip Perkins, ex-British amateur champion, leading the field on the final day of the 1932 Open Championship until Gene Sarazen came along with a record score of 65 on his final round to make the title safe once more for the professional democracy.

Sarazen had also won the British Open. He was the king, at least for the year, and optimistic enough to think he should be given the honor of captaining this year's Ryder Cup team. The others didn't agree with him, however, and selected Walter Hagen again.

Anyway, ten good professionals and true sailed out for England and the international matches with England, but was the Open Champion of the United States among them? Not by a jugful of Johnny Goodmans!

Injury to Injury.

Not a one of them within six full braise shots of the bantamweight amateur star from Omaha, Johnny Goodman. Not a single member of the P. G. A. with a chance to take him down the stretch or take advantage of his last round slump.

The one and only pursuit of the winner, a chase that came within inches of creating a tie and subsequent playoff, was staged by a rangy ex-Texas amateur, Ralph Guidahl, now the professional of the St. Louis Country Club, but not eligible either for membership in the P. G. A. or on the Ryder Cup team.

Worrying about Bob Jones was a pleasure compared to this situation. When the Georgian whipped them, the professionals needed no alibi.

Kingston All Stars Booked Over Holidays

The week-end and holiday is filled for the Kingston All Stars. Sunday afternoon at the Fair Grounds the powerful Peekskill Pros will furnish the opposition and on the Fourth of July the Newburgh All Stars will play the locals in a double header—one here in the afternoon and the other at Newburgh in the evening.

The Peekskill organization only plays Saturday games but after much persuasion it was arranged to bring them here for a Sunday contest.

The double header on the Fourth with Newburgh will start at 6 o'clock here, then the second game at Newburgh at 6:30, which will be part of a celebration.

RED HOOK TEAM TO PLAY THE BLACK YANKEES

On Thursday evening, July 29, at 6:15, the Black Yankees are to meet the Town of Red Hook team at Chanler Park. The team is composed of the cream of colored players in the United States, and the players come from all corners from coast to coast. The team trained in San Juan, Puerto Rico, for two months this spring prior to starting its season here in early April and to date have defeated all of the big independent teams in the east as well as the Bushwicks, Farmers, Springfield, Bay Parkways Passaic, Hackensack and others in the Metropolitan area. Last season the club played some 170 games and lost but 27 in their travels from Maine to Ohio, which is rather an imposing record for any team to have. The players are as follows: Billy Holland, Speed Rector, Lefty Stanly, Bill Treat and Luther Farrell, pitchers; D. Thomas, first base; Cannady, second base; Yancy, short; Wiggins, third base; George Scalia, captain and manager, plays left field, and Clint Thomas, center field, with Bill Clark of Los Angeles doing the catching.

Sunday, July 2, the Rensselaer Giants will play at Red Hook. This club has defeated all the leading clubs of the Capital district. They have the following line-up: Fowler, 1b.; Williams, s.s.; Kleinhans, 2b.; O'Neill, c.; Brynes, p.; McGowan, p.; Harrington, p. This club is recommended as being one of the best in southern New York.

Tips on CONTRACT

Strip The Enemy

By TOM O'NEIL

Elimination, or strip plays, are in the repertoire of all good players. They permit the making of some contracts which at double dummy might seem doomed to defeat because the adversaries between them possess enough high cards.

The play has several forms. It requires at times the handling of the situation so that no cards of certain suits are left in the dummy or in the declarer's hand and trumps are left in each.

Then one or the other adversary is put in the lead by the deliberate loss of a trick, and he has to lead either up to a tenace or to lead a card which can be ruffed either in the dummy or in the declarer's hand, a discard being obtained in the other.

Another form involves elimination of certain suits from the hand of an adversary so that he has to lead a particular suit on which the declarer can obtain a discard. Good card counting and deduction are necessary for the declarer to make the play. Here is a hand in illustration:

(DEALER) NORTH		EAST
♠ 8 6 3		♠ 10 2
♥ A K 6		♥ J 5
♦ A J 9 5		♦ 10 7 4
♣ J 2		♣ 10 9 7 4 3
WEST		SOUTH
♠ 9 4		♠ A J 7 5
♥ 10 8 4 2		♥ 9 7 3
♦ 10 7 4		♦ K 8 3
♣ K 8 6		♣ Q 5

North opened the bidding with one diamond. East offered two clubs. South two spades. West passed and North ended the auction with four spades.

A spade was led from the North hand. East had to take it. He made his ace of clubs and then had to lead a club. South discarded his losing heart.

The trick was captured by a trump in the North hand, a good diamond was led and the last heart in the North hand was ruffed with the last trump in the South hand.

How A Tyro Would Lose

At double dummy it might seem that West and East must make two clubs, a spade and a heart, setting the contract one trick.

The average player perhaps would endeavor to take all the trumps by a spade finesse and lose one of them.
